

Politics Council Delves into Texas Primary Results

Brandon Rottinghaus, associate professor of political science at the University of Houston, was the featured speaker at the March 8 Partnership Politics Council. Mr. Rottinghaus spoke with the council about the Super Tuesday primary election results from March 1, 2016 and what they will mean to the next Texas state legislative session, session of Congress and to the 2016 general election.

Rottinghaus is an expert in Texas politics and his commentary has appeared in local, state and national publications and broadcast media. He elaborated on how the current presidential candidates performed across Texas, future races to watch in the primary run-offs and general election, and the unlikelihood of major change to the Texas Senate and House or the Texas congressional delegation.
