The Houston Airport System has added significant international capacity over the past few years, with new service to Asia, Mexico, and Central America. Service to those markets is now “right-sizing” to meet current demand.

Houston continues to expand its overseas reach. Bahamas Air will initiate Houston-Nassau service in November, United will start Houston-Mazatlán service later this year and Houston-Sydney service in January '18.

The Houston Airport System handled 3.95 million passengers in August, a 14.1 percent decrease from the 4.61 million passengers handled the same month last year. Cancellations caused by Hurricane Harvey likely contributed to the August decline.
