Houston's airports earned 4-star ratings from Skytrax again this year—the only city in the Western Hemisphere with that distinction. Hobby earned its fourth consecutive 4-star rating and Bush earned its second. Hobby ranked sixth overall among airports in North America and Bush was recognized for its website and digital services. Skytrax rates airports on the quality of its service and facilities based on passenger surveys.

Houston's two airports were also recognized for their excellent customer service according to the Airport Experience News Awards. Bush won top spot in the Large Airports category while Hobby was named the winner in the Medium/Small Airports bracket.
