While earning a Mechanical Engineering degree from Prairie View A&M University, Eddie received countless awards as an on-air host for NPR-affiliate, KPVO-FM. After stints with ExxonMobil and 3M, he decided to move to New York City and study journalism. After picking up a Masters degree in Media Ecology from New York University, Robinson worked alongside news host Bryant Gumbel as a producer for CBS News' The Early Show. He quickly established a solid career in broadcasting for CBS Radio, WFAN, WNYC and MTV Networks, including an on-air gig at SiriusXM Satellite Radio, where he hosted the first-ever sports talk radio show for the LGBTQ community. Eddie also co-hosted a television special on PBS-TV8 entitled, 'Houston In Black & White,' a 60-minute show that explores racial issues facing black and white communities in Houston. He's now enjoying the heat in the Bayou City and working as a Morning News Anchor for Houston Public Media, News 88.7.
