

HOUSTON

A Headquarters City

As a major corporate center, Houston is home to 23 Fortune 500 headquarters, the fourth largest concentration of any metro in the nation. Our welcoming business environment continues to attract substantial foreign investment in our region, while our logistics capabilities provide companies with unparalleled access to global markets.

Houston's success as a top global market for headquarters is driven by its deep talent pool, low cost of living and doing business, and an exceptional quality of life.

Case Studies: Headquarters

Hewlett Packard Enterprise

Hewlett Packard Enterprise (HPE) announced the company will relocate its global headquarters to the Houston region from San Jose, California. The headquarters will be located at the company's new state-of-the-art Springwoods Village campus slated to open in early 2022. The addition of HPE expands Houston's Fortune 500 headquarters roster to 23 companies.

837
new jobs

$150M
capital investment

440,000
square-foot campus

“ As we look to the future, our business needs, opportunities for cost savings, and team members' preferences about the future of work, we are excited to relocate HPE's headquarters to the Houston region. Houston is an attractive market to recruit and retain future diverse talent and where we are currently constructing a state-of-the-art new campus. We look forward to continuing to expand our strong presence in the market. ”

- Antonio Neri, CEO, Hewlett Packard Enterprise

GREAT LAKES
DREDGE & DOCK
COMPANY, LLC

Great Lakes Dredge & Dock, the country's largest provider of dredging services, announced the relocation of the company's corporate headquarters from Chicago, IL to Houston's Energy Corridor in early 2021. The move puts the company closer to key regional customers and new markets, as well as strengthens its efforts to attract and retain a specialized workforce in Texas.

40-60
new jobs

$5M
capital investment

20,000
square-foot office

“ The move to Houston is a testament to the region's extraordinary diversity of talent and competitive landscape and supports our important connections and outreach in geographies that will better serve our customer base. ”

- Lasse Petterson, CEO, Great Lakes Dredge & Dock

The Greater Houston Partnership assists companies in site selection analysis, incentive evaluation and application, aid in the permitting process, provide key data on business facilities, and help connect with civic, industry, and ecosystem leaders.

All projects included here were supported by the Greater Houston Partnership.

For more information about the Houston region, visit

HOUSTON.ORG/WHY-HOUSTON

GREATER HOUSTON PARTNERSHIP